Approximately 55 were in attendance at the Memorial Service in the clubhouse prior to interment.

Frank Clark wrote the following for the play that was put on here called "Melba the Toast of Hawthorne".

*Hawthorne, this Hawthorne, is really my home,
I've found fulfillment, so why should I roam?
Friendship, enjoyment, we share everyday.
Why should I go away?
We can play shuffleboard, or sing a chord, or strum
a bass.
Creative folks, athletic blokes, around the place.
Friends share my silence or sadness or glee.
Don't you see?*

*Hawthorne, this Hawthorne, is really my home.
I've found such beauty, now why should I roam?
Blossoms on fruit trees perfuming the skies,*

*Sea birds delighting eyes.
See how like dowagers the live oaks on their promenade
Clasp silver stoles of Spanish moss in hands so fond.
This bit of heaven on route twenty-seven is home to me.*
